Dear Readers in Christ

I write this article with a heavy heart due to the sudden demise of our spiritual father, H.G. Dr. Zachariah Mar Theophilos Thirumeni. Mar Theophilos was well known for his kindness and the Prelate was a great philanthropist. An outstanding charity champion, the Metropolitan was also a well known Orthodox scholar. We place our tearful condolences and prayerful obituaries.

Children are blessings from the Creator. In Bible times, the measurement of God's favor in your life is through how many children you have. But whether we admit it or not, it is not easy to raise them. They are like brand new white canvass and depending how you mould them, that will how they will become in the near future. Below are four essential things that our kids really need to have that will greatly impact their whole being and how they perceive life in general.

1. Self Esteem

Parents can help develop a sense of strong esteem in their children by recognizing that all children are unique from birth and by celebrating their different abilities. Know who your child is and what they are like. Always encourage your kids to express themselves and say what it is they really feel like. When they do something positive praise them and encourage them to continue acting in the same way. Teach them to respect themselves and to respect others. And finally make them understand that everybody is unique and was created in a special way. They should therefore never feel inferior since they are also special.

2. Playing and Interaction

When interacting with your kids try as much as possible to get down to the level of your child and involve yourself in the games that they are playing. Make them feel as though you are equals and that they can tell you anything that is on their mind. Speak to them in soft and slow voices and always encourage them to engage you in conversation. Speaking to them in harsh and reprimanding tones will only have negative consequences on their development. Provide your kids with toys and take them to recreational parks.

3. A Safe and Secure Home

Your child needs a home where they feel secure and safe. Children who grow up in homes that are not safe tend to have trust issues. They think that everybody out there wants to harm them and this will make life really hard for them. When the home is not safe they will be unhappy and anxious, this can have a negative effect on their health and learning due to the stress that these kids have to cope with. You can provide a safe home for your kids by; meeting their basic needs, showing them that you love and care for them, childproofing your home, avoiding physical punishment and ensuring that your kids get all the medical attention that they require. This will help nurture kids who are healthy, happy and who can enjoy what the world has to offer them.

4. Love and Smiles

The importance of hugs, kisses, smiles and affection can never be overestimated. When you hug and cuddle your kids they feel comfortable and loved. It gives them a sense of belonging and they know and feel that you care about them. Whenever you are with your kids smile and try and make them smile. Smiles are contagious, so if you smile frequently when with them they will also learn to smile and become jovial people. When you smile, for them it means that you are happy to be with them and pleased with them. All these are positive emotions and they will have a positive impact on their lives.

St. Geevarghese Mar Gregorios

Feast Day: November 2

Saint Gregorios of Parumala is popularly known as 'Parumala Thirumeni'. Metropolitan Geevarghese Mar Gregorios of the Malankara Orthodox Church who passed away on November 2nd 1902, became the first declared saint from Malankara (Kerala, India) naturally to be called, 'Parumala Thirumeni'. He shines in the cloud of witnesses as a bright luminary giving rays of hope to millions in their suffering and struggles.

BIRTH AND PARENTAGE

Mar Gregorios was born on 15th June 1848 (M.E. Mithunam 3, 1023) to Kochu Mathai and Mariam of Pallathetta family in the Chathuruthy house at Mulamthuruthy. He was called by the name 'Kochaippora' and was given the baptismal name 'Geevarghese'. Kochaippora had two brothers and two sisters; Kurian, Eli, Mariam and Varkey. Kochaippora was the youngest and was therefore the most beloved to everyone. Unfortunately, his mother passed away when he was only two years old. His eldest sister Mariam became to him all that a mother was meant. Mariam was married at that time and had a child of Kochaippora's age.

READER-DEACON AND FURTHER EDUCATION

He was ordained as a reader-deacon (Korooyo) on 14th Sept, 1858 at the age of ten by Palakkunnath Mathews Mar Athanasios at Karingachira Church. Koroyo Geevarghese continued his training under Geevarghese Malpan until the latter died due to small pox. Although Deacon Geevarghese was also infected with small pox, he miraculously survived it. Afterwards Deacon Geevarghese moved to Pampakuda to continue his studies under Konat Geevarghese Malpan. In the mean time Deacon became associated with the visiting Syrian Bishop Yuyakim Mar Coorilos. Mar Coorilos had great admiration for the deacon and was pleased to ordain him as full deacon, priest and cor-episcopa within few months in 1865.

CONSECRATION AS METROPOLITAN

Being pleased with the Ramban Geevarghese, the Patriarch decided to consecrate him as Metropolitan. On December 10, 1876 the Patriarch consecrated six priests as bishops including Ramban Geevarghese at St. Thomas Church, N Paravur. He was given the new name Geevarghese Mar Gregorios and was given the charge of Niranam Diocese. The other bishops and their Diocese were: Murimattath Mar Ivanios (Kandanad) Kadavil Mar Athanasios (Kottayam) Ambattu Mar Coorilos (Ankamaly) Karottuveetil Simon Mar Dionysius (Cochin) Konat Mar Julius (Thumpamon) St. Thomas Church, N Paravur Mar Gregorios took charge of the Niranam Diocese and started staying at Parumala. There was at Parumala, at that time, a land donated by Arikupurath Koruth Mathen to the church and in this plot a small building was erected by the Malankara Metropolitan Pulikkottil Joseph Mar Dionysius. This building was known as 'Azhippura'. Mar Gregorios lived there along with few other deacons who came for priestly training. They worshipped in a thatched chapel during that time.

THREEFOLD ACTIVITY

Mar Gregorios engaged in a threefold activity of tireless service for the church: Diocesan administration, Ministerial formation of deacons, Missionary witness of the church through inner spiritual and theological consolidation, along with evangelical reaching out.

HOLY LAND - PILGRIMAGE

Mar Gregorios made the Holy Land Pilgrimage in 1895 as the fulfillment of a long cherished dream. On his return he published a travelogue under the title 'Oorslem yathra vivaranam' (a narrative of the Jerusalem visit). This book, published in 1895 is to be considered as the earliest printed travelogue in Malayalam. This book had its centenary edition in 1996 and translation into English in 2000.

A VISION AND MISSION FOR THE ENTIRE CHURCH

Mar Gregorios believed that the church should engage in educational activity especially to facilitate primary education and English teaching without discriminating gender or religion. Accordingly he started schools at Kunnamkulam, Mulamthuruthy, Niranam, Thumpamon, Thiruvalla etc. The missionary task of the Church was also evinced by his outreach programme to the socially down trodden communities at Chennithala, Kalikunnu, Mallappally, Puthupally, Kallumkathara etc. He also organized evangelical awakening programme for non-Christians at various places like Aluva, under the leadership of the Seminary students.

A major task of Mar Gregorios was to motivate the clergy for effective ministry. With this aim, he formed the Malankara Syrian Clergy Association and took many progressive decisions and made many suggestions for the effective functioning of the priestly ministry.

DEPARTURE FROM THE WORLD

Mar Gregorios was already a piles-patient. It became chronic in 1902. Treatments proved futile and slowly His Grace became physically weaker and weaker. At last the blessed soul left the earthly abode on 2nd November 1902. The funeral was conducted at Parumala on Tuesday the 3rd of November 1902 in the presence of thousands of people and hundreds of priests. The many testimonies to the saintly intercession of Mar Gregorios made Parumala Church and the tomb a centre of pilgrimage. In 1947 Mar Gregorios of blessed memory was declared a saint by the then Catholicos of the church, His Holiness Baselius Geevarghese II.

Koodhosh Eetho (Sanctification)

Koodhosh Eetho (Sanctification) The Sunday that comes on after October 30th is called Koodhosh Eetho (Sanctification of Church) Sunday. It is the beginning of the church calendar.

First of all we need to know what the Church is and why it should be sanctified. Church, according to St. Paul, is the 'Body of Christ' (Romans 12:4-21; 1Cor 6:15; 12:12ff). Church is also called the 'temple of God' (1Cor 3:16). This Church belongs to God.

A temple is the abode of God and therefore it must be holy. Here St. Paul reminds us all that individual believers and the collective body of believers is the members of Christ's body.

St Peter jogs our memory to be 'living stones built into a spiritual house' (1 Peter 2:5). We proclaim in our Niceo-Constantinopolitan creed that the Church we believe in is 'ONE, HOLY, CATHOLIC and APOSTOLIC'. Church by virtue of being a Church is, therefore, the body of sanctified and 'called out' people (ek-kaleon, Gk). The faithful are called out from darkness to His marvelous light to declare His wonderful deeds (1 Peter 2:9). And therefore, Church is One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic

Hoodhosh Eetho (Dedication)

Hoodhosh Eetho (Dedication)The Sunday after Koodhosh Eetho is called Hoodhosh Eetho (Dedication of Church) Sunday.

The Syriac term "Hoodhosh Eetho" meaning, "The Feast of Dedication of the Church", has a connection with "the Feast of Dedication of the Old Testament Church", which took place approximately three months after the Feast of Tabernacles (John 7:1-10:21). It was also called 'Hanukkah or Chanukah' which was of 8 days celebrations by the Jews. Like Diwali to the Hindus, it was a 'Festival of Light' to the Jews.

Annunciation to Zechariah

According to the Gospel of Luke, Zechariah was a Jewish priest and Pharisee of the line of Abijah, during the reign of King Herod the Great, and husband of Elizabeth, a woman from the priestly family of Aaron. The parentage of John the Baptist is not recorded in the other Gospels. The evangelist states that both the parents were righteous before God, since they were blameless in observing the commandments and ordinances of the Lord. When the events related in Luke commenced, their marriage was still childless, because Elizabeth was barren and, like her husband, was advanced in years (Luke 1:5-7).

The duties at the temple in Jerusalem alternated between each of the families that had descended from those appointed by King David (1 Chronicles 23:1-19). The offering of incense was one of the most solemn parts of the daily worship and, owing to the large number of eligible priests, no priest could hope to perform the task more than once during his lifetime. Luke states that during the week when it was the duty of his family to serve at the temple in Jerusalem, the lot for performing the incense offering had fallen to Zechariah.

Dr Paulos Mar Gregorios

Born on August 9, 1922 in an ancient Orthodox Syrian Christian family at Tripunithara in Kerala, young Paul Verghese (former name of Paulos Mar Gregorios) was brought up in the traditional Christian family discipline and close knowledge of Orthodox faith and practice. The young boy was very attached to his mother. However, the sudden onset of a serious and prolonged mental illness of his mother brutally severed their affective ties, and the unusually bright teenager son was thrown into total confusion. His father was a stern school teacher of modest means. The emotional, spiritual and material struggles the boy, eldest son in the family, had to undergo at that time remained with him throughout his life. Despite all the painful circumstance, Paul Verghese got through the school final examinations with high distinction in the princely State of Cochin. One of his bitter disappointments was that his family had no means to send him to college.

In 1947, through a dramatic incident, recounted in his autobiography Love's Freedom: the Grand Mystery, he went to Ethiopia as a school teacher. There he learned the Amharic language so well that he could compose an elementary grammar book of that language for students. He remained there until 1950 and then went to the USA to start his college education that he had missed so much. He earned a B.A from Goshen College and then a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Princeton University. Obviously his spiritual, theological and philosophical interests were kept alive amidst all the trying circumstances.

In 1954 Paul Verghese returned to India and started working as a lecturer in Christian faith and theology at the Union Christian College, Alwaye and the Fellowship House. Soon he was elected General Secretary of the Orthodox Student Conference of India.

In 1956, he went back to Ethiopia, this time invited as special advisor to Emperor Haile Selassie and as his liaison officer with India. He was treated almost like a prince in the royal house. Although he was critical of Selassie's policies, he gained the confidence of the Emperor.

In Early Service of the Church

By now, Paul Verghese had already received ordination as a priest. The young Indian Orthodox priest made a great impression as a speaker and Bible study leader on the World Assembly of the WCC at New Delhi in 1961.

In 1967, he became Principal of Orthodox Theological Seminary on the invitation of his mother Church in Kerala. Thus Fr. Paul Verghese began to put into practice his vision of theological education and pastoral training. He inspired several generations of priests and bishops.

In 1975, Fr. Paul Verghese was consecrated bishop and he became the first Orthodox Bishop of the Delhi Diocese. Delhi, the national capital thus became the arena of his manifold activities—intellectual, social, pastoral and cultural. Until his demise in 1996, he simultaneously and successfully held the positions of the Principal of Orthodox Seminary in Kerala and that of the Metropolitan of Delhi.

The idea of justice propagated by Mar Gregorios was deeply rooted in the notion of the Kingdom of God and its justice taught by Jesus Christ. So he did not subscribe to any human ideology in an absolute manner. He always said, 'God alone is infallible', and was deeply aware of the ambiguity of all human claims of truth and justice

Mar Gregorios travelled from Oxford to Cologne on 29th May, 1993 in order to participate in a symposium on the 'Foundations of High-energy Physics' at the University of Cologne. He developed a stroke during the flight, and was partially paralysed. Since then, he remained physically debilitated until his end in Delhi on 24th November, 1996. But he continued his spiritual and intellectual journey with great determination and clarity of mind until the very end.

The life of the great visionary Paulos Mar Gregorios is summarised in his own words, "all uniting love with creative freedom in the Spirit as the great mystery at the heart of reality – one man's vision."
